U. D. C. Gave a Brilliant Event Last Night At the Home of Judge John C. Avery.

The U. D. C. gave one of the most pleasant events of the season last night in honor of the birthday anniversary of the late and beloved General Robert E. Lee, at the home of Judge Jno. C. Avery at the corner of Barcelona and Gadsden streets. Judge Avery had kindly tendered the use of his beautiful home for the occasion to his niece, Miss Fannie Caldwell, who is president of the U. D. C., the house having been elaborately decorated with red and white carnations, emblematic in hue of the Confederate colors.

When the guests began assembling, it at once became evident that the largest and most brilliant affair in the history of the popular organization was to be chronicled last night, there having been a great many more than one hundred guests in attendance. Members of the Ladies' Memorial Association, the U. C. V., the Sons of Veterans, the Children of the Confederacy and a number of invited guests thronged the place, much interest having been evinced in the rendition of the following excellent program:

Opening Address—"Robert E. Lee," the Rev. Dr. Niles.

Solo, "My Old Kentucky Home"—Mrs. Irving Post.

Sketch of Lee—Mr. C. V. Thompson.

Reading, "Lee's Farewell Address"—Miss Marguerita Moreno.

Violin Double Number—Edwin Lurton.

Solo, Medley of Southern Airs—Miss Missouri Cawthon.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Sandusky.

Chorus, Suwanee River.

Presentation of Crosses of Honor—Miss Fannie Caldwell, president of U. D. C.

Dainty refreshments were served after the close of the program and a pleasant half hour of social intercourse enjoyed by those present.

Those who were present were loud in their enthusiastic expressions relative to the clever treatment received during the evening at the hands of the U. D. C., who were voted as capital and very efficient hostesses.

DEATH OF FORMER PENSACOLA LADY.

The many friends of Mrs. Frank Hamilton, who will be remembered as Miss Laura Roberts, of this city, were shocked to learn of her death, which occurred yesterday morning at 8:45 o'clock at her home in Mobile. The death of this much beloved lady is unusually sad, as a husband and five children are left to mourn her loss. She was also survived by three sisters, who are Miss Mabel Roberts and Mrs. Walter Norman, now of Birmingham, and Mrs. B. B. Suggs, of Pensacola.

COMPLIMENT TO FORMER PENSACOLA YOUNG LADY.

In an extended article in the New Orleans Times-Democrat, regarding the dedication and formal opening of the free clinic of the Presbyterian hospital of New Orleans, and of the elaborate entertainment, which occurred as a result, Miss Pearl Murphy, a bright Pensacola young woman receives the following complimentary notice, which will be read with much interest by her many friends in this city:

"Miss Pearl Murphy has been selected by the board of managers as the head nurse, and she will have charge of the clinic at all times. The selection of Miss Murphy was commented upon by a number of physicians as a wise one, she being regarded as one of the most competent trained nurses in the city. She is a graduate of the New Orleans Sanatorium Training School for Nurses."

TOURISTS MET YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

The Pensacola Tourist Club held a meeting yesterday afternoon, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, a large number of visiting tourists having been present, many of them having signified their willingness to join the club if a sufficient number can be secured with which to carry the association on in a successful manner.

Vice-President Lewis opened the meeting by stating that he had been requested to secure all of the signatures of the visiting tourists which are to be used in a publication to be issued this winter to be known as the "Winter Colony" pamphlet. A large number registered accordingly.

It is estimated that there are at the present time between 200 and 300 tourists in the city. Vice-President Lewis, who is the ruling spirit of the club, made a short but very apt appeal to those present to join the club, in order that funds may be secured with which to carry on a social organization in which the visiting tourists may be given the opportunity of becoming acquainted, and of enjoying the winter as thoroughly as possible.

Several new names were added to the list, the meeting adjourning until next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Miss Kate Gilmour, stewardess of the Sardinia, which was recently destroyed by fire at Malta, is the first woman to receive a Lloyd's medal for saving life at sea. Miss Gilmour refused to leave the ship until all the women and children had been rescued, and to her coolness and courage is due, it is said, the saving of many lives.

Miss Helene Miropolsky made her debut the other day as a member of the Paris bar as the attorney for a woman who, being on the verge of starvation, had tried to end her own and her baby's life. The young lawyer is described as being beautiful. She wore during the trial a simple black gown with the white barrister's bib and a black toque that showed her wealth of waving black hair.

The Juvenile Protective association of Atlanta is to have charge of the Uncle Remus Home for Children, to be established as a memorial to Joel Chandler Harris near Atlanta. The site for the home has been given to the association and much of the money necessary for the building has already been collected. The institution is to be known as a juvenile state. It will contain a school, gymnasium and mechanical workshop.

Mme. Zeynab Nouri is the daughter of Marshal Noura Pasha and two years ago fled with her sister to Paris from the sultan's harem. She was one of the best educated and most enlightened women of Turkey, and she says that the influence of women in the recent Turkish revolution was certain, although little known to the outside world. The women of Turkey, forgetting themselves, are faithful and enthusiastic helpers of the national party and happy in the success of their joint work.

Miss L. R. C. Smith, sister of the Rev. J. H. C. Smith, curate of All Saints' Southpool, England, has been invited to become pastor of a large English congregational church. She has not yet made a reply, but if she should accept the call she will be the first woman in England to take charge of a minister of a congregation of church. The Rev. Gerrard von Petzold until recently had the distinction of being the only woman minister of a unitarian church in England. A few weeks ago she accepted a call to America.

The woman movement in China is taking a rather curious form. In other countries women have revolted against the tyranny of man. In China they are revolting against their relations-in-law. One of their clubs in Shanghai, for instance, has for its object "rebellion against mothers-in-law." The rebellion is no milk-and-water affair, either, observers say. Chinese women have unbought their minds along with their feet, and are throwing off the customs of ages in a way that is most disgusting to the more conservative elements of their man-ridden country.

Mrs. George S. Ladd of Sturbridge, Mass., was the only woman to speak at the six-hour session of the commission for the betterment of country life which was recently held in the courthouse in Boston. Mrs. Ladd talked about the conditions existing in the average country home. She maintained that there should be courses of domestic science in all public schools and that the work in agricultural colleges should be extended so as to include topics on farming and home life of interest alike to boys and girls. She contended that the tendency was to educate the children away from the farm rather than to fit them for it.

with a small nail brush rather than with a comb.

Oilcloth can be brightened quickly if after it is washed and dried it is rubbed over with a cloth dipped in skim milk.

If the temper of an iron is spoiled it will never retain the heat so well again. Never let irons stand on the range or get red hot.

The unpleasant creaking of a door can be remedied if the edges are rubbed with soap and a few drops of oil are put in the hinges.

A hardwood floor can be kept free from scratches longer if the legs of chairs have a bit of felt pasted on the bottom. An old felt hat can be utilized.

Onions, if rinsed several times in fresh additions to boiling water before they are cooked, are much more digestible than if boiled in the ordinary manner.

When washing lace never rinse it in blue water with the idea of improving its color. Real lace should be finally rinsed in skim milk, which will give it a soft, creamy color.

To clean a blue and white fiber rug, wash it with a solution of water, borax and white soap, rinse and add a nickel's worth of muriatic acid to the rinsing water to restore the blue tint.

When cakes stick in the layer pans do not attempt to scratch off the baked dough, but put one pan on the stove and fill it with boiling water in which is a pinch of soda, turn the other pan up side down on it and steam will do the rest. Steaming a cereal pan makes it less difficult to clean than to plunge it into boiling water, for then the glutinous substances stick to the pan.

When the icing of a cake is difficult to cut the knife should be dipped in hot water.

In making a cake, grease the tin with sweet lard rather than with butter, and sift a little dry flour over it.

Blood oranges added to the ice cream give a delicious flavor and many like the sherbert made of this fruit.

Meat loaf of chopped veal or beef is made much more moist if three or four tablespoonsful of cream are added at the last just before baking.

In making salads do not chop your meats and celery in a chopping bowl. Cut into the desired sized pieces with scissors. This is quicker, neater and cleaner than the old way.

A good way to wash bottles or vinegar cruets is to put crushed egg shells and warm soap water together in them and shake well. This will clean the glass well and will not scratch it.

A good silence cloth for the dining table can be made with a double thickness of white flannel laid with the soft side on the inside and quilted on the machine; edge with a binding of white tape.

To prevent salt in salt bottles from becoming damp and lumpy, when filling them put in ten to twelve pieces of rice. This will not come through the holes in the cover of the salt cellars, but will break the lumps of salt and gather the moisture; thus the salt is always dry and fine.

White is not as popular for evening gowns as it has been for so many seasons, and there were never so many beautiful colors to choose from. One of the most artistic gowns is made this season of a soft material of a faint coral tinge, and another color much in favor is Granada blue, which has a silver shimmer to it.

In one home, in the rear of the hall, is a low rack on which the children can hang their coats, hats and mittens when they come in from school. The hanger was made with two stout steel brackets and a curtain pole, and the pole was fitted with hooks on which the articles were held. On one end of the pole was hung a whisk broom, and each tot was taught its use and always gave the necessary whisk to its coat and hat.

If a small gum elastic is stitched to the silk bow, the elastic, being passed under the flap of the collar and attached to the collar button at the back, it will keep the tie in place much better than the usual metallic clasp.

A convenient washcloth for the face or for the bath can be made of white net. Take any old net curtain, cut it into pieces and fold it three or four times to get the desired thickness and size, then quilt it on the machine, by stitching around the edges and twice across in each direction. The net washclothes can be neatly made and the monogram can be stitched in one corner.

Play suits for little girls are ordinarily made of coarse gingham or heavy linen, but serge, mohair or panama cloth is needed for gymnastic wear.

HE'S IMMUNE.
Her face is very charming.
Not a feature is amiss;
Her bright eyes are alarming
And her mouth seems formed to kiss;
Her hair's a lovely yellow
As a man would wish to see.
She might rattle any fellow,
But she can't scare me.

Her figure's nicely rounded
And each movement's full of grace,
It shares in my unbounded
Admiration of her face.
Great havoc she is making.
Even women will agree.
Her manner's mighty taking,
But she can't take me.

Her smile is sweet and winning,
And her voice is soft and low,
But I am not beginning
To succumb to her, I know.
Gum she's too fond of chewing,
Though she's pretty as can be;
So I guess there's nothing doing—
No, she can't have me.

HOW HE WOOS.
Yes, it is true, I've been in love before.

How many girls? Oh, I forget—a score.

Perhaps. But when you came upon the scene,

I knew they were but handmaids to a queen.

But maids of honor, who had played their part

Preparing for the princess of my heart—

A kingdom small, but blest if one so fair

Entroned in state might reign forever there!

Too small a realm, the life I have to live,

But, sovereign liege! 'Tis all I have to give!

Your kingdom now a lovely land appears.

Warmed by your smiles and blighted by your tears;

Bounded by heaven, beneath it and above,

Its coin is kisses, and its law is love.

Will you reign there? None may your rule dispute—

It is a monarchy, and absolute.

Your subjects are my thoughts! none are more true.

And none more loyal than my thoughts, to you.

If they do wrong (for thoughts will sometimes err)

Your frowns will be their executioner.

Reign, then, supreme, in more than royal state,

And know that, should you ever abdicate,

The crown will rest upon no other's head—

When the queen leaves, the kingdom will be dead!

("Geel!" says the guy who springs this little rhyme,

"That dope works yet! It brings 'em every time!"
